Redefining Readiness: Terrorism Planning Through the Eyes of the Public with Guest Speaker Roz D. Lasker, MD, Director, Division of Public Health and the Center for the Advancement of Collaborative Strategies in Health at the New York Academy of Medicine.

At the conclusion of the presentation, the participants will be able to:

1. Describe the methods used for collecting information from the public about terrorism planning.
2. Understand the reasons for likely non-compliance of population segments with “top-down” preparedness planning.
3. Support the local processes by more accurately reflecting concerns and limitations of the affected public.
