

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY State University of New York

Center for Public Health Preparedness

Ethical Hazards in Pandemic Flu Planning and Response

Live Colloquium

Thursday, May 11, 2006 Noon – 1:30 p.m.

University at Albany School of Public Health Auditorium
East Campus, Routes 9&20, Rensselaer, NY

Featuring Harvey Kayman, MD, MPH, University of South Carolina Center for Public Health Preparedness and Public Health Representative, South Carolina Medical Association Ethics Committee

Please join Dr. Kayman following the 10 a.m. satellite broadcast to discuss ethical challenges related to pandemic flu planning and response.

Support for the University at Albany Center for Public Health Preparedness is received from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), cooperative agreement U90/CCU224249, in collaboration with the Association of Schools of Public Health (ASPH). The contents of this program are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of the CDC or ASPH.